

Bradford White Contractors: Protecting Public Health

The role you play as a Bradford White contractor has always been essential when it comes to protecting public health by specifying and installing hot water systems. The importance of what you do has now climbed to the forefront, in the face of the COVID-19 pandemic.

Without your commitment to the communities in which you live and the customers you serve, homes and numerous commercial facilities such as hospitals, doctors' offices, nursing homes, schools, military installations, food processing plants and more would fail to have adequate hot water vital for sanitization and hygienic purposes. Without a reliable hot water supply, hospitals, nursing homes and food processing plants could not continue to operate.

Both the President and CISA (The Cybersecurity and Infrastructure Security Agency of the Department of Homeland Security) have recognized your role as essential critical infrastructure in the fight against COVID-19. The Guidance on the Essential Critical Infrastructure Workforce: Ensuring Community and National Resilience in COVID-19 calls out a significant number of essential critical needs that can only be done by a highly-skilled, professional contractor like you.

We are extremely proud and appreciative of what you do and that's why we insist on the professional specification and installation of our products. We are here to serve and support you as you work on the frontlines in the battle against COVID-19.

Be safe and thank you on behalf of the entire Bradford White family!

Sincerely,
