

Explore the great training options brought to you by

Bradford White is committed to excellence. We do this through the products we manufacture, the services we provide, and the training we offer to Bradford White pros like you.

Virtual Training Options:

- eLearning

This convenient, self-paced training approach empowers professionals to gain valuable product knowledge on their own time and in a location of their choosing with 24/7 access. That means no travel expense, downtime, or waiting. Find product-specific courses, as well as other industry-relevant training that pros need to know.

- Live Training Broadcasts

Our Live Training Broadcasts from our International Technical Excellence Center (ITEC™) in Middleville, MI, are a convenient way for customers to learn from their computers, tablets or phones. These broadcasts offer customized remote live training focused on topics of the customers' choosing and can accommodate up to 150 participants.

In-Person Training Options:

- Regional Training

We can arrange training sessions to accommodate the location and schedules of our valued professional customers.

- Training in Middleville, MI

For The Pro® training at ITEC™ provides customers hands-on learning in a live-fire facility showcasing several mechanical systems.

Attendees will be immersed in an environment that allows them to explore, diagnose and repair products commonly installed in today's residential and commercial hot water and heating systems.
